1. This week's lecture: Burmese culinary traditions NEW

Raymond

In conjunction with International Education Week, Art history professor and Center for Burma Studies Director Catherine Raymond will present “Lahpet and Palata: Exploring Burmese Culinary Traditions” with Ma Sandar Wynn from University Libraries at noon Friday, Nov. 18, in 125 Altgeld Hall. Come learn about Burmese cuisine and then enjoy tastings of several Burmese dishes. “I see it as a journey of flavors through the unknown Burmese cuisine, which is really diverse due to the multiethnic society where each ethnic group brought together their own culinary traditions and made Burma, located between India and China, a crossroads of Asian flavors,” Raymond says. This will be the last lecture in the Center’s fall brownbag series. It is also the last day to view the traditional and contemporary Burmese art and objects on display at the NIU Art Museum in Altgeld Hall. The four exhibits include pieces from the Burma Art Collection, textiles, paintings, Buddhist pieces, chests for holding sacred texts, decorative pieces in wood, ivory and silver, and ceremonial lacquerware, as well as modern works from the Thukhuma Collection.

2. Notes from all over: Jacobsen book talk, stellar Bahasa debaters NEW

Jacobsen

The History Department celebrates the release of CSEAS associate and associate history professor Trude Jacobsen’s new book, Sex Trafficking in Southeast Asia: A History of Desire, Duty and Debt (Routledge, 2016) at a reception from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, in the Thurgood Marshall Gallery in Swen Parson Hall. Jacobsen will give a book talk followed by a question-answer session; refreshments will be served. . . . NIU Indonesian language students took three awards Oct. 29 in the first East-West Debate in Bahasa Indonesia at Cornell University in Ithaca, NY, sponsored by the Indonesian

Embassy and Cornell. Leo Reich won first place in the intermediate high level and Nadia Biletska and Margaret Miller won first and second place in the intermediate low category. The debate question was: “Social Media Use is Harmful to the Indonesian Language.” Six intermediate and advanced Indonesian language students from NIU joined 12 other students from around the country in the debate. NIU’s contingent, in addition to the winners, included advanced students Rachel Jacob and Andrew Waite, and intermediate student Christine Dose. . . . Alumna Krista Albers (MA history, 2015) presented “‘Precedent Has Been Established’: Kennedy’s Defoliation Policy in Vietnam” Nov. 12 at the Illinois Political Science Association Conference at North Park University in Chicago.

At Cornell, Bahasa debaters Rachel Jacob and Margaret Miller, front, and Nadia Biletska, Daisy Dose, Leo Reich and Andrew Waite, back.

3. Spring ahead: Check out SEA courses for next semester

Spring semester’s Southeast Asia courses offer all kinds of opportunities to explore the region’s many facets. Learn about peoples and cultures of mainland Southeast Asia, the history of Southeast Asia prior to 1800, women in the arts of Southeast Asia, political violence, and the history of the Central Intelligence Agency in the world (including Southeast Asia), among others. All of these courses can be applied toward Southeast Asian Studies minors/contract majors or graduate certificates.

In addition to second-semester Burmese, Indonesian, Khmer, Tagalog and Thai language classes, the spring lineup includes: SEAS 225, Southeast Asia: Crossroads of the World (taught by Eric Jones with political science PhD candidate Thomas Rhoden); ANTH 408/508, Peoples and Cultures of Mainland Southeast Asia (Judy Ledgerwood); ARTH 294, Art History Survey: Arts of Asia (Catherine Raymond); ARTH 457/657, Topics in Art History: Women in the Arts of Southeast Asia (Raymond); HIST 342, History of Southeast Asia to circa 1800, (Trude Jacobsen); HIST 480/580, Spies, Lies and Secret Wars: History of the CIA in the World (Eric Jones); POLS 362, Politics of Developing Areas (Kheang Un); POLS 376, Political Violence (Kikue Hamayotsu); POLS 667, Seminar in Political Development (Hamayotsu); POLS 690, Political Science Research (Hamayotsu). Other non-language courses include MUSE 370/670, Gamelan (Jui-Ching Wang with I Gusti Kertayuda), FLST 482, Censorship and Propaganda (Tharaphi Than) and FLTH 300, Special Topics in Thai Language, Literature, Linguistics or Culture (Thepboriruk).

4. Business seminar added NIU's SEA study abroad programs

There are now two opportunities to leave winter behind and study abroad in Southeast Asia between fall and spring semesters—one to mainland SEA and the other to Bali.

Lee

The NIU College of Business is offering a new International Business Seminar that will take graduate and undergraduate students to Vietnam and Thailand Jan. 1–12. The seminar, led by Accountancy Professor Chih-Chen Lee, is focused on business, entrepreneurship and culture. While COB has offered IBS programs for more than 20 years, this is the first to Southeast Asia, Lee said, noting that students from any discipline are welcome. Cost of the program is $5,455, which includes international airfare. For more information and to apply, see the International Business Seminar listing through NIU Study Abroad.

CSEAS associate Jui-Ching Wang (School of Music) is offering her third Experiencing the Arts in Bali program between semesters Dec. 15–Jan. 4. As in previous years, participants will spend three weeks in the mountain village of Bangah in western Bali, where they will learn about traditional culture and religious practices, architecture and crafts, and Balinese music and dance, ending with a performance. Wang is leading the program with art professor Shei-Chau Wang. To learn more, see “Eat, Pray, Learn” in the summer 2015 Mandala, check out the video brochure, or live the experience in this video made by one of the program’s participants. Cost of the program is $3,135, which does not include international airfare. To apply, go to the Bali program website through NIU Study Abroad.

Hamayotsu

Interested in gaining firsthand field and living experience in Indonesia, the largest Muslim-majority democracy in the world, next summer? Faculty associate Kikue Hamayotsu (Political Science) is leading a program in Yogyakarta, Central Java, in the summer, May 21–June 4, focusing on Indonesian politics, religious and ethnic diversity and conflict, and a rapidly changing Southeast Asian society. Yogyakarta is a vibrant hub of culture, arts, education and industry where students can observe how Indonesia's diversity informs its social, political and economic development. Participants will live at Gadjad Mada University and participate in daily activities and field trips. Cost and program information are pending. For details, contact Hamayotsu at khamayotsu@niu.edu. For more details on studying abroad, see the Study Abroad website.

5. Listen up: New Southeast Asia Crossroads podcast 'on the air' NEW

"Second-Hand Memory" with Vietnamese-American poet and Grinnell University English professor Hai-Dang Phan is the latest conversation to be found on Southeast Asia Crossroads, CSEAS's new twice-monthly podcast. Also in the series, CSEAS Assistant Director and history professor Eric Jones talks with University of Leeds political scientist Duncan McCargo, NIU art historian Catherine Raymond (with graduate assistant Carmin Berchiolly), Kent State University historian Shane Strate and historian Philippe Peycam, director of the International Institute of Asian Studies in Leiden.

Jones, who serves as the podcast's main moderator with other CSEAS associates occasionally stepping in, sees the Center's new venture as a natural extension of its mission as a US Department of Education Title VI National Resource Center for Southeast Asian studies. "Budding students of Southeast Asia can learn to rely on it for important educational content. Experienced Southeast Asia hands will be able to keep a pulse on the state of the field. Casual listeners, lifelong learners and comparative analysts can find great topics about a region they want to know more about," he says.

6. Two FLAS opportunities, two deadlines, one application

Now is the time for all good SEAS students to consider applying for a Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) fellowship. Whether you're applying for a summer 2017 or an academic-year 2017–18 FLAS fellowship, or both, you can do so with one application. The application and all information on both summer and academic-year FLAS awards are posted on the Student Funding page at the CSEAS website. Summer FLAS applications are due Jan. 1; the deadline for the academic-year FLAS is Feb. 1. FLAS fellowships are funded by the U.S. Department of Education's Title VI Program of Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships. Summer FLAS fellowships provide for the summer study of Southeast Asian languages at any U.S. Department of Education-approved educational institution, especially those in Southeast Asia but also including the Southeast Asian Studies Summer Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Priority will be given to students planning to study in a Southeast Asian country. A list of currently approved programs is posted on the CSEAS website. Note: In accordance with NIU policy, students awarded a FLAS fellowship will have any financial aid they receive reduced by the dollar amount equal to the fellowship award.

What's it like to be a FLAS fellow? See "Students Parlay Southeast Asian Studies into Scholarships, Travel, Leg Up in Job Market," in the NIU Newsroom

7. Applications for 2017–18 Neher Fellowship open to graduate students

U.S. and international graduate students are invited to apply for the Center's 2017–18 Clark and Arlene Neher Graduate Fellowship for the Study of Southeast Asia. The fellowship includes a tuition waiver and a $4,000 annual stipend. To apply, students must be in good standing with NIU and demonstrate a commitment to a career involving Southeast Asian studies. Students should be at an advanced stage in their program, either master's or doctoral, and be planning field or archival research in SEA studies. For details, see the Student Funding page on the CSEAS website. Apply online by Feb. 1.

8. Prestigious language programs offer fully funded chance to study abroad NEW

Studying a Southeast Asian language in-country: Highly desirable. Studying a Southeast Asian language fully funded: Priceless. Interested in expanding your language study abroad? These two programs offer funding and the chance to learn overseas:

- David L. Boren program: The David L. Boren fellowships and scholarships, an initiative of the national Security Education program, is open to U.S. undergraduate and graduate students to hone their language skills abroad. Grants range from $20,000 for undergraduates to $30,000 for graduate students. The deadline to apply for 2017 Boren fellowships for undergraduates is Jan. 31 for graduate students and Feb. 9 for undergraduates. The Boren advisor at NIU is Study Abroad Director Anne Seitzinger; contact her at aseitz@niu.edu. For more information, see the Boren website.
- Blakemore Freeman fellowships: The Blakemore Foundation makes grants for the advanced study of selected Southeast Asian languages—Burmese, Indonesian, Khmer, Thai, and Vietnamese—by scholars and mid-career professionals. Applications for the 2017 Blakemore Freeman fellowships and Blakemore refresher grants are now being accepted. The grants cover tuition and stipend, educational expenses, living costs and transportation. Candidates must be U.S. citizens with an undergraduate degree pursuing a career that involves the regular use of a Southeast Asian language. See the Blakemore Foundation website. Deadline to apply is Dec. 30.

9. Burnish your resume with Southeast Asian Studies

Add a Southeast Asian Studies minor to a bachelor's degree or a graduate certificate to an advanced degree and pull your resumé to the top of the pile. To learn more, visit the CSEAS website or stop by CSEAS at 520 College View Court. Undergraduates may make an appointment with adviser Maria "Rai" Nihei at mhancock3@niu.edu; graduate students should contact Assistant Director Eric Jones at iloveroti@gmail.com.

10. Save the dates: NIU Culture Fest, Jacobsen book launch

- Nov. 17: NIU Culture Fest sponsored by the Southeast Asia Club, 6 to 8 p.m., Wirtz Hall.
- Nov. 18: Book launch reception for CSEAS associate Trude Jacobsen, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., Thurgood Marshall Gallery, Swen Parson Hall.
- Through December 9: Storytelling: Hmong American Voices exhibit, Pick Museum of Anthropology at NIU.

11. Freshmen: McKearn fellowships offer funding, career development NEW

NIU's McKearn Fellows Program will begin accepting applications from current freshmen for the 2017–20 cohort after Thanksgiving break. Students selected for this program explore research, artistry, leadership, and civic, social and global engagement in their selected field of study, in addition to funding opportunities for participating and attending local, regional, national and international conferences within their field. Learn more at one of three upcoming informational sessions on Nov. 21, Dec. 1, and Jan. 19; all sessions will start at 6 p.m. and be held at Room 125 Altgeld Hall. Deadline to apply is midnight, Jan. 23. For details, see program website.
